

Senior Front end Developer (XHTML, CSS, Javascript) - JustGiving
Full-time position
Competitive salary (plus profit share eligibility after 3 months)

JustGiving, the UK's leading online fundraising platform, is seeking a creative, collaborative and passionate front-end developer to be the creative force at the point where technology meets design within our growing team in central London.

Working as part of the user experience team, your mission will be to play a vital role in enhancing and expanding products across www.JustGiving.com, ensuring that your work is abstracted, maintainable, and with the help of our user experience and visual designers, beautiful to look at and a pleasure to use.

Technically you will have strong experience using clean, hand-written XHTML and CSS. Your best friend will be Firebug and together you'll produce flowing layouts using table-less CSS. You'll take delight in client-side functionality with unobtrusive javascript/jQuery and will be keen to push the boundaries of the web. You are following the buzz about HTML5 and praying for the day when the world finally upgrades from IE6.

A good working knowledge of MVC frameworks, a broad understanding of Web technology and a zeal for Web 2.0 and Web design/development techniques will definitely be beneficial as will some experience of developing for social networks and an understanding of the importance of accessibility and SEO. Experience of Flash and Actionscript would also be great but not required.

As a senior developer you will be expected to define best practice and house guidelines on coding standards, undertake unit testing and cross-browser compatibility testing and will also chip in with the hiring and management of contractors and external developers as required.

You must be a detail-oriented, result-driven individual who works well within team environments and has great interpersonal skills. You should also have experience with full system development lifecycle, supporting systems after deployment to a live environment.

You will have five years commercial front-end development and at least three years of practical javascript experience.

If you think you have what it takes to work in the rich and rewarding environment of one of the UK's fastest growing tech companies, please get in touch by email.
